ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

This study would not have been easy without the support of my sisters, brothers and their children. I therefore extend my thanks to Welheminah, Epheniah, Buti and Jonas for their encouragement during my times of study.

I can’t forget the inspiration of Mr. Elvis Ngomane, a principal friend who just volunteered to become my mentor throughout the process that I took to compile this thesis. I give my other thanks to Mr. Marumo Modise, a colleague from my previous job who provided me with some guidance on to how to structure chapter three (3) of a thesis.

Had it not been the contributions of participants from the three schools in the Temba District of Bojanala East Region in the North West Province, this thesis would not have been a success. I submit my humble gratitude to the teachers at these schools.

To Professor Hugo Van Rooyen, thank you very much for the tireless guidance, efforts and commitment you have shown to make me not only the environmentally literate person, but also the good Environmental Education teacher I think I am today. The same gratitude is extended to Doctor Andrew Graham who made this thesis meet the required and acceptable language standards of the Republic of South Africa.

Lastly, I thank myself for the perseverance that I had to manage all the pressures I came across during the whole process of compiling this thesis. It wasn’t easy but I am proud to say I did it.
